During the past year the Library has, as usual, been patronised by eager first-formers and industrious though less eager sixth-formers. However, we have been pleased to note that more members of the middle school have taken an interest in the Library than previous years. At the beginning of the year, we entered numerous new books, catering for a wide range of ages and interests. Much money is spent on twenty or so magazines every month and we feel that these would be of more use to all if the Sixth Form would be more tidy and less artistic when they read them. We would like to thank Mr. Murray for all his help and hope that our successors enjoy their year's work and value their experience.
